

TIP OF THE WEEK

July 3, 2007

This week is Independence Day in the United States. July 4th, a time in our history when we fought for what we believed was important - to win the freedoms and rights we felt we were being denied.

Independence in your world may mean fighting for your people when you feel your organization is not treating them the way they deserve. Or the way you would like yourself to be treated. Odds are that if you stand up for your employees, they will stand out for you.

Enjoy the Fourth of July. Save a hotdog and a beer for me.

Good luck. Work ON your business. Stay in touch.
